CORAM: Hon'ble Mr. Ashok K. Arya, Member (Technical)

Final Order No. 53136/2017

Per Ashok K. Arya :

M/s Hindustan Zinc Ltd. is in appeal against Order-in-Appeal No. 158/2016 dated 5.8.2016 passed by Commissioner (Appeals), Jaipur whereunder Cenvat credit on the service tax paid for consultancy service with respect to laying of pipelines for supply of water from dams to the Dariba Mines of the appellant has been denied.

2. Both sides represented by Id. Counsels, Shri Shaswat & Ms. Sukriti Das for the appellant and Ms. Kanu Verma Kumar, for the Revenue have been heard.

3. The matter is covered by the ratio of the CESTAT decision in the appellant's own case in Appeal No. 50495 & 50487/2016 vide Final Order No. 52240-52241/2016 dated 28.6.2016, wherein it has been observed as under:

“5. Heard both the sides and examined appeal records. The point for decision is the eligibility of appellant for service tax credit paid on services received for laying, inspecting and certifying the pipelines used for transportation of water to the manufacturing unit at Dariba. The admitted facts are that water is essential in the manufacturing process, the pipelines are exclusively used for transport of water for the said purpose. The service tax paid is on services received w.r.t. pipelines. The reasoning given by the lower authorities regarding these services being not connected with manufacture is not sustainable in view of the facts narrated above. The scope of input services as given under Rule 2(l) of Cenvat Credit Rules, 2004 is not restricted to the location of the factory premises alone. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court in Deepak Fertilizers & Petrochemicals Corpn. Ltd. Vs. CCE, Belapur – 2013 (32) STR 532 (Bom.) have examined in detail the legal provisions applicable in such instances. The Hon'ble High Court found as below:

5. Now at the outset it must be noted that Rule 3(1) allows a manufacturer of final products to take credit inter alia of Service Tax which is paid on (i) any input or capital goods received in the factory of manufacturer of the final product; and (ii) any input service received by the manufacturer of the final product. The subordinate legislation in the present case makes a distinction between inputs or capital goods on the one hand and input services on the other. Clause (i) above provides that the Service Tax should be paid on any input or capital goods received in the factory of manufacture of the final product. Such a restriction, however, is not imposed in regard to input services since the only stipulation in clause (ii) is that the input services should be received by the manufacturer of the final product. Hence, even as a matter of first principle on a plain and literal construction of Rule 3(1) the Tribunal was not justified in holding that the appellant would not be entitled to avail of Cenvat credit in respect of services utilized in relation to ammonia storage tanks on the ground that they were situated outside the factory of production. The definition of the expression 'input service' covers any services used by the manufacturer, whether directly or indirectly, in or in relation to the manufacture of final products. The words 'directly or indirectly' and 'in or in relation to' are words of width and amplitude. The subordinate legislation has advisedly used a broad and comprehensive expression while defining the expression 'input service'. Rule 2(l) initially provides that input service means any services of the description falling in sub-clauses (i) and (ii). Rule 2(l) then provides an inclusive definition by enumerating certain specified services. Among those services are services pertaining to the procurement of inputs and inward transportation of inputs. The Tribunal, proceeded to interpret the inclusive part of the definition and held that the Legislature restricted the benefit of Cenvat credit for input services used in respect of inputs only to these two categories viz. for the procurement of inputs and for the inward transportation of inputs. This interpretation which has been placed by the Tribunal is ex facie contrary to the provisions contained in Rule 2(l). The first part of Rule 2(l) inter alia covers any services used by the manufacturer directly or indirectly, in or in relation to the manufacture of final products. The inclusive part of the definition enumerates certain specified categories of services. However, it would be farfetched to interpret Rule 2(l) to mean that only two categories of services in relation to inputs viz. for the procurement of inputs and for the inward transportation of inputs were intended to be brought within the purview of Rule 2(l). Rule 2(l) must be read in its entirety. The Tribunal has placed an interpretation which runs contrary to the plain and literal meaning of the words used in Rule 2(l). Moreover as we have noted earlier, whereas Rule 3(1) allows a manufacturer of final products to take credit of excise duty and Service Tax among others paid on any input or capital goods received in the factory of manufacturer of the final product, insofar as any input service is concerned, the only stipulation is that it should be received by the manufacturer of the final product. This must be read with the broad and comprehensive meaning of the expression 'input service' in Rule 2(l). The input services in the present case were used by the appellant whether directly or indirectly, in or in relation to the manufacture of final products. The appellant, it is undisputed, manufactures dutiable final products and the storage and use of ammonia is an intrinsic part of that process."

4. By following the ratio of the above order of the Tribunal, it is held that the subject input service is in relation to manufacturing activities of the appellant. Therefore, service tax paid under subject service viz. consultancy service is eligible for Cenvat credit by the appellant.

5. Consequently, the impugned order is set aside and appeal allowed with consequential relief, if any, to the appellant.
